

Table of Contents

Introduction	9
References	13
Chapter I
Enhancing suppliers' sustainable performance in emerging economies through global sourcing
Abstract	14
1. Introduction	14
2. Literature review and theoretical background	16
2.1. Global sourcing and sustainability	16
2.2. Global sourcing: Asian emerging countries as a sourcing context – take China as an instance	19
3. Synthesizing the environmental and social principles through GS	21
3.1. The social dimension of sustainability in GS	22
3.2. Environmentally sustainable practice in GS	24
3.2.1. Internal and direct extension	25
3.2.2. Indirect and external extension	26
4. Discussion and Conclusion	27
References	30
Appendix	34
Chapter II
Green public procurement: the avenue from the past to the future
Abstract	36
1. Introduction	36
2. The policy framework and practice status of GPP	39
2.1 Policy implications and regulatory matters	39
2.1.1. Agenda for Sustainable Development 2030	39
2.1.2. GPP legislation framework in the European Union	40
2.2. GPP Policy implementation status	40

2.3. Challenges and opportunities of GPP practices and uptake	42
3. Incorporating the environmental considerations into the GPP process	45
3.1. How can public authorities take environmental considerations into account	45
3.2. The green criteria for public procurement	48
4. Effectiveness of GPP	50
5. GPP “spillover”: innovation and circular economy (CE)	52
5.1. GPP as a driver for the circular economy	52
5.2. Spillovers of GPP: innovation	54
6. The possible future and conclusion	55
References	58
Appendix	63

Chapter III

Sustainable and circular procurement in practice

Case 1 – E-procurement and Sustainable/green public procurement	66
References	73
Case 2 – Circular economy to promote green public procurement in China	74
References	82
Appendix	84
Case 3 – Plastic sourcing of Cathay Pacific: towards a more sustainable direction	85
References	89