

INDICE

pag.

Foreword

IX

CHAPTER I

GUIDELINES FOR A CONSTITUTIONALLY-ORIENTED INTERDISCIPLINARITY

1.1. Paving the path	1
1.2. “Technological and scientific tenets” of profiling and targeting: a premise	3
1.3. Regulating new technologies: highlights	6

CHAPTER II

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE-ENABLED PROFILING AND TARGETING: LEGAL CHALLENGES AND IMPLICATIONS

2.1. The characteristics of profiling	13
2.2. Profiling and neuromarketing	19
2.3. Profiling and political microtargeting	24
2.4. Profiling and hyper-nudge	31
2.5. Profiling and discrimination	34
2.6. Affective computing	41

CHAPTER III

CONSTITUTIONAL TENETS OF SELF-DETERMINATION

3.1. Liberty and personal identity	46
3.1.1. Mind and cognitive processes	49
3.1.2. Self-determination	53
3.2. Personal data protection	55
3.3. Individual and collective data protection	59

CHAPTER IV DOCTRINAL CLAIM FOR NEURO-RIGHTS

4.1. New or existing rights?	69
4.2. Freedom of thought	73
4.3. Right to mental privacy, mental integrity, cognitive liberty and psychological continuity	76
4.4. Right to mental self-determination	78
4.5. Right not to be deceived, right to change one's own mind and right to start over with a clean digital slate	79
4.6. The path ahead	81

CHAPTER V EUROPEAN UNION'S LEGAL SAFEGUARDS AGAINST AI-DRIVEN PROFILING AND TARGETING

5.1. Profiling and targeting: GDPR provisions	86
5.1.1. Fine-tuning GDPR protection: investigating the legal basis	90
5.1.2. Fine-tuning GDPR protection: valid consent	93
5.1.3. Fine-tuning GDPR protection: limiting profiling	98
5.2. Profiling and targeting: DMA and DSA provisions	101
5.3. Profiling and targeting: AI Act provisions	105
5.4. Profiling and discrimination: from the GDPR to the AI Act passing through the DSA	109
5.5. Profiling, targeting, deceptive and manipulative practices: the provisions of the AI Act, DSA, EMFA	112
5.6. Profiling, targeting and manipulation in political advertising	118
5.7. Striking a balance	123

Concluding thoughts on the constitutional implications of AI-driven profiling and targeting	125
--	-----

Bibliography	129
---------------------	-----